Heteroplasmy means that cells contain more than one mitochondrial DNA variant.

A biomarker is a measurable biological indicator used in this fictional methods note.